Course Overview

Exchange Traded Funds are now firmly established in the investment world. But how do they actually work? Originally designed as simple, user friendly, passive, Equity Index tracking vehicles, their evolution has created several different types of product, across the Asset Classes, with each one requiring different approaches in due diligence. While the external 'packaging' might look similar, the risks underneath vary considerably.

- ETFs & traditional Index Funds compared
- Understanding ETFs, the different replication mechanisms

- Primary (Redemption, Creation process) & Secondary markets - Authorised Participants
- Real time pricing & Arbitrage opportunities, Dividends
- Tracking error measurement
- Deciding on which ETFs to employ – structure, transparency, cost, liquidity
- Core vs Satellite investing
- ETF Variations on a theme - Inverse, Leveraged
- Commodity ETFs – Issues to consider – Futures or Physicals?
- Understanding the importance of Contango & Backwardation
- Inverse, Leveraged & Swap-based. What could possibly go wrong?
